How much solar capacity will the US have?

Our annual Year in review report includes a 10-year outlook for every segment. We expect cumulative US solar capacity to more than triple from 236 GWdc installed at year-end 2024, to 739 GWdc installed by 2035, with average annual capacity additions of more than 45 GWdc.

Which states install the most solar power in 2024?

In 2024, Texas maintained its position as the top-ranked state for new solar capacity installed for the second consecutive year, with 11.6 GWdc. California narrowly beat Florida for the second position, driven by significant installation volumes in the utility-scale and commercial segments.

How much solar capacity will the US have in 2035?

We expect cumulative US solar capacity to more than triple from 236 GWdc installed at year-end 2024, to 739 GWdc installed by 2035, with average annual capacity additions of more than 45 GWdc. This outlook is based on available information at the time of report publication.

Which countries installed the most solar power in 2024?

Pakistan emerged as a key market with an estimated 17 GW, while Brazil installed 14.3 GW. 34 countries installed more than 1 GW of new capacity in 2024; 23 countries now exceed 10 GW in total installed capacity. Utility-scale PV led global installations, but distributed PV remained strong in key markets including Germany, Türkiye, and Brazil.

Does China need more solar power to reach its climate target?

So there is a lot of uncertainty in the Chinese solar industry, but there are also irrefutable facts: China needs to continue to expand domestic solar capacity to reach its climate target. Similarly, global demand for PV products will not cease.
