What is Danone's commitment to sustainable packaging?

Our commitment to sustainable packaging is clear: by 2030, we want all our containers to be recyclable, reusable or compostable. As part of our "Danone Impact Journey", we strive to minimize our reliance on fossil-based virgin plastic, reducing it by 30% by 2030 and by half by 2040.

What is Danone doing with reusable packaging?

Danone also continues developing reusable packaging models as our current reusable plastic jugs and glass offer, while participating in cross-industry partnerships to scale reusable models like in France working closely with Citeo. reusable, recyclable, or compostable packaging by 2030.

Does Danone have a circular economy model?

To address the global challenge of plastic pollution, Danone has adopted circular economy models. These include designing recyclable packaging, supporting efficient waste collection systems and reintegrating recycled containers into new packaging production cycles.

What makes Danone a sustainable brand?

We're proud to be part of this growing movement. At Danone, notably at the Danone R&I packaging center in Evian, France, sustainability is at the heart of every development stage. Our experts create next-generation materials - renewable, biodegradable, plant-based - while testing formulas suited to food safety needs.
